Effect of Proceedings on the Morals of Congress.

PUBLIC CONSCIENCE AWAKE

The Fifty-sixth Congress, which assem bles in December, is expected to be an example of virtue and high moral qualities. In such a promiscuous assemblage of mer from all parts of the country and from various walks of life as composes Congress it cannot be imagined that Congress has at all times been above reproach. From time to time, as one Congress has succeeded another, some very distinguished names have been associated with scandals. Even up to as late as the adjournment of statuary hall situated within the colon-hade, which is furnished with seats for whose moral sensibilities at the people women who have sent their area. women who have sent their cards to mem- ceed in compelling Congress to unseat Robbers of the House, was known familiarly among members as the "harem." With so many handsome and distinguished men force in the District of Columbia and the

From long custom the public at Wash-lugton have learned to be a little blind to pulsion from Congress as the penalty, From long custom the public at Washthe moral imperfections of men in Congress, or to regard them as a matter of course. The extent, however, to which public sentiment all over the country has been aroused on account of the Roberts case may be expected to have a good moral influence upon Congresses of the future, and more particularly upon the Congress which will be called upon to expel the Utah representative on account of alleged imrepresentative on account of alleged immoral practices. The moral sense of the public has been awakened and the demand for the unseating of Roberts is very general and persistent.

Islative body in the world is believed to have reached. The expulsion of Roberts is almost certain to be followed by many prosecutions and some expulsions if the moral indifference of past Congresses should prevail in this.

Difficulty in Unseating Roberts. But there are some difficulties in the way of Congress complying with the public demand unless Roberts brings more than one wife with him to Washington, or confesses publicly on the floor of the House that he is guilty of polygamy. If he had ever been convicted of polygamy in a court of Utah or if he could be indicted there before Congress meets the matter might be easily handled. As it is, however, the question to be considered is how Congress can come into possession of official knowledge of his guilt, if he be guilty. Charges will be made but Congress has no recognized right to try Roberts for a crime alleged to have been committed in a state. That such a situation as that involved in this case should arise is the fault of Congress itself, in that the constitution of Utah when she applied for admission as a state was not convicted of polygamy in a court of Utah examined with sufficient care, and the possibility of a polygamist being elected to Congress was not provided against.

When the enabling act was passed by Congress it was required of Utah that her constitution should prohibit polygamy and her admission could not take effect until the constitution had been examined and approved by Congress. This was all done, but camined with sufficient care, and the pos-gress deemed satisfactory was not suf-ficiently safeguarded to dispose of such men as Roberts.

proved by Congress. This was all done, but it appears that the constitution which Con-

Congress Cannot Discriminate. The reliance of those who think the diffiulty may be overcome is in the provision that Congress shall be judge of the qualifications of its own members. There appears to be a misconception on the part of many, however, as to what this provision many, however, as to what this provision means. It does not mean that Congress can declare a special disqualification in the case of one man, which would not apply to any other man coming within the description. Congress has a perfect right to decide that the violation of the Edmunds anti-polygamy law shall be a disqualification, polygamy by that law being declared a crime within the federal jurisdiction; but the application cannot be confined to one specific case if others are presented. The disqualification must apply to all who came squalification must apply to all who come within his terms.

It is this that gives importance and significance to the crusade against Roberts. If it were only a moral spasm that would pass off with the disgorging of Roberts, the case would be too insignificant to warrant the straining of the Constitution necessary to get at it; but since the application of the principles adopted in this continuous

It is equally impossible that all of these distinguished men should be indifferent to this flattering tribute. Consequently it is expected, as is always the case, that a large proportion of those interested in Congress from a gallery or lobby point of view should be women. During every session there have been some members of the House who have found this distracting of their attention to the routine and more or less monotonous business of the House.

THE FOURTH

General Missionary Committee Resumed Its Labors This Morning.

DISCUSSION OF PHILIPPINE MISSION

Small Sum Appropriated for Work in the Islands.

OTHER MATTERS CONSIDERED

The fourth day's session of the general missionary committee of the Methodist Episcopal Church was begun this morning at 10 o'clock in the Foundry Church, 14th and G streets northwest. Heretofore the hour for beginning the day's work has been 9 o'clock, but, as it was desired to give an opportunity for some committee meetings, was decided to defer the general meeting for an hour. It has been supposed that the committee would be able to complete its work and adjourn at the close of the morning session Monday next. Whatever prospect there was for a finishing up of the business at that date has now completely disappeared for it is found that the committee has completed only about one-half of its annual task. The progress made at this meeting has been unusually slow, it is said, on account of the disposition to discuss details. Instead of having a debate on the various classes in the schedule of appropriations such as the work among the Germans, or the French-speaking peoples, and then pass-ing rapidly over the items, as has been the custom, the latter have been made topics of discussion.

It is now believed that at the present rate it will be necessary to hold evening sessions Monday and Tuesday, and even then it will probably be necessary to hold sessions Wednesday. This afternoon there will be no meeting, as the committee has accepted an invitation of Bishop Hurst to visit the grounds of the American University. To-morrow a majority of the members of the committee will occupy the pulpits of the churches of the denomination in this city.

Philippine Mission.

Bishop Merrill presided at the session his morning, and as soon as the devotional exercises were concluded Bishop Fowler said the question would have to be determined at this session whether or not a mission is to be established in the Philippine Islands. He, therefore, suggested that he matter be taken up.

Rev. Dr. Buckley observed that last year when this question came up it was decided that the Philippines belonged to foreign missions,

"President McKinley," observed Bishop McCabe, "says the Philippines is not a foreign question."
"The President has nothing to do with matters pending before this committee," retorted Dr. Buckley, "and so his opinion is not to govern." not to govern."
Dr. Buckley suggested that the Philip-ne question should be referred to a speal committee. Bishop Welden was of the opinion that if the subject of the foreign work was to be considered at the present time, the Philippine question would then be in order without further action. It was stated by Bishop Andrews that Bishop Thoburn of India would be obliged to leave the city Monday, in order to take a steamer, and, therefore, the foreign mission work ought to be taken up, in his opinion, as soon as possible. It was decided to proceed with the consideration of the appropriations for the foreign work, and then Bishop Fowler asked how much money would be needed asked how much money would be needed for the proposed mission in the Philippines.

It was stated that a large appropriation would probably not be needed. Dr. Leonard said a Methodist church was already established in Manila, and there were other facilities for the proposed work. A motion was made that an appropriation of $2,000 be made for the Philippine mission.

Services have been continued since and the interest is well sustained. He also established what is known in India as a coffee room, as a resort for sailors and soldiers. He added that it was self-supporting, as a small charge was made for temporary lodgings. He thought a good school for boys ought to be established at once and a similar institu-tion for girls would undoubtedly come later. He said one of the workers spoke the lan-guage of the Tagals, another Spanish, and English services were being maintained. The bishop went on to say that it had The bishop went on to say that it had been his experience that the first step in the establishment of a church was not the erection of a building. That had always been a later phase in the work. He urged that the Philippire Islands should be attached to the Singapore region, and in a few years, perhaps at the end of four years, there would be a Philippine conference. He said he believed an appropriation of $2,000 would be sufficient at this time.

The opinion was expressed by Rishop of $2,000 would be sufficient at this time. The opinion was expressed by Bishop Walden that the Philippine Islands would be a home mission field when the committee meets next year. No opposition was expressed to the Philippine appropriation, although the discussion ran on for some time. The resolution appropriating $2,000 was adopted, and the work was placed in charge of the bishop of India and Malaysia. A resolution was also adopted appropriating $5,000, or any part of it, if it is donated to this work.

It was suggested by Bishop Hurst that the whereabouts of Aguinaldo be pointed out, and, amid much laughter, the bishop from India said that he wished he could. A resolution extending the congratulations of the committee to Mr. John French on his eighty-fifth birthday, which elicited a few words of thanks from Mr. French, and also the comment from Bishop Bowman that Mr. French was three years older than he is.

A resolution was also adopted expressing the apprecia ion of the committee for the forward movement carried on by the Epworth League.

Various items of appropriation for the work in Malaysia were approved, and then the items for India were acted upon. The total appropriation for Malaysia was $10,of the increase based on last year's appropriation to be determined by a special.

BOARD OF TRADE OFFICERS

Annual Meeting of the Board of Directors Yesterday Evening.

John Joy Edson is President-Others Who Were Honored by Election to Responsible Positions.

The board of directors of the Washington board of trade yesterday afternoon held its first meeting since the election of new directors, and chose officers and transacted other business. Mr. John Joy Edson was elected president and Mr. Thomas W. Smith second vice president of the board.

President Theodore W. Noyes called the board to order, and Mr. George H. Harries served as the secretary. The following were elected to membership: Dr. D. H. Hazen, Messrs, William J. Marsh, John Hyde, Bernard Kopf, Robert Castelberg and Weaver Bros. (David F. and Charles H. Weaver)

When nominations for officers were called for Mr. R. Ross Perry nominated Mr. Theodore W. Noyes to succeed himself as presi-dent. The nomination was declined by Mr. Noyes, as he has already served two terms, Noyes, as he has aiready served two terms, and because he expects to be absent from the city next winter. Mr. W. J. Newton thereupon nominated Mr. Charles J. Bell, the first vice president. Mr. Bell made a brief speech, in which he expressed thanks for the nomination, but added that personal physical conditions and business considerations prevented his acceptance of the office.

physical conditions and business considerations prevented his acceptance of the office.
Mr. John Joy Edson, the second vice president, was then nominated by Mr. Frank Hume, and unanimously elected.
Upon calling the new president to the chair, Mr. Noyes thanked the members of the board for their co-operation during his term of office. Mr. Edson expressed his appreciation of the honor conferred on him and spoke briefly of the prospects for a successful year's work for the board. Mr. R. Ross Perry moved that the thanks of the beard of trade be tendered to the retiring president, and paid a warm tribute to Mr. Noyes for the services which he had rendered the city of Washington as well as the board of trade. The motion was carried by a rising vote. Mr. B. H. Warner made a motion that the good wishes of the board be extended to Mr. Noyes for a pleasant and prosperous season of travel. This also was carried unanimously.

Ross Perry nominated George H. Harries for secretary for the third term, and he also was elected. Mr. F. L. Moore was nominated by General Spear for treasurer and Mr. R. Ross Perry as general counsel by Mr. B. H. Warner, and both were elected.

Mr. B. H. Warner offered a resolution urging legislation to broaden the general incorporation laws of the District. The matter was referred to the committee on the codification of laws. President Edson was authorized to appoint a special committee of five to arrange for entertainment, or behalf of the board of trade, of the centennial committee, which meets here Detennial committee, which meets here De-cember 21 next. ENSIGN GHERARDPS DARING.

Rescued Immigrants at San Juan During the Cyclone.

The Navy Department has received a circumstantial account of the conspicuous gallantry of Ensign W. R. Gherardi during the recent terrific cyclone which swept across Porto Rico. It was made by Capt. Snow of the naval station, San Juan, and shows that when the storm was at its height Ensign Gherardi and J. J. Jiminez, a civil engineer, ran along the beach to the point nearest the shipping, which was dragging anchors through the terrific force of the wind. The schooner Conception, loaded with 150 emigrants from San Domingo, and the steamer Vasco were in greatest distress. Some of the people were jumping overboard. The statement proceeds as fol-

"Gherardi at once plunged into the water with his clothes on and began dragging the unfortunates from the waves and bringing them to the shore. He ordered those on board to throw a lifeline to the shore, so as to make fast, but they were so terrorized that they were unable to do anything but jump into the water, where they were taken by Gherardi and Jiminez and brought to shore. There were from four to six people (women and children) who did not dare to jump into the water. They were told to do so, but remained where they were, and were undoubtedly lost, as the schooner soon went to pieces, Those rescued numunfortunates from the waves and bringing and were undoubtedly lost, as the schooner soon went to pieces. Those rescued numbered nearly 130 souls. The steamer Vasco was then battling with the waves a few hundred yards off. Gherardi called for a lifeline, and forming a party of rescuers in a line joining hands, extending out into the water, himself at the head, he soon had hold of the line, and, bringing it to shore, fastened the end securely to a neighboring tree. The crew climbed down and along the line and were safely landed."

Captain Snow also called attention to the the line and were safely landed."

Captain Snow also called attention to the fact that the ensign was now in the naval hospital at New York as a result of the exposure and hardship undergone at that time. Additional interest is given to the matter by the fact that Ensign Gherardi has twice before been mentioned for considerance callenging. spicuous gallantry.

Consent of Railway Company to Application for License Not Required.

Attorney for District Renders an Opinion on Points Raised Before Excise Board.

The attorney for the District has rendered an opinion to the effect that an applicant for a liquor Leense in the vicinity of the road Company is not required to obtain the consent of the company, for the reason that the company is not the owner of the land on which the station is located. The opinion was rendered in the cases of Messrs, Rodier & Gallagher, who recently applied for a transfer of the bar room liense of the Hotel Elkton, on 6th street opposite the railroad station, and the administrator of the estate of the late James A. Brown, for a similar transfer on 6th street. The law requires applicants for iquor liceuses and transfers of the same to secure the consent thereto of a majority of he real estate owners on the square where the place of sale is to be located, both on the came and confronting sides of the street. In the two cases in question it is alleged that the railroad company refused to give its consent, and it was thereupon contended by Messrs. Wilton J. Lambert and E. B. Hay, the attorneys of the applicant, that the railroad company being merely a tenant by sufferance on the land on which its station is located, the owner being the United States, the consent of the being the United States, the consent of the company is not required.

This contention the attorney for the District sustains, and he points out that the uniform construction placed upon the excise law in its administration has been that the consent of the United States is not required where a government reservation is within the territory for which the written consent of the owners of real estate or resident housekeepers is required. He also holds that the railroad company is not a house-keeper in the meaning of the term as used in the liquor law. He also points out that the cases in question are quite analogous to that of the Washington Market Company, which is located on the reservation at 7th street and Pennsylvania avenue, and in which latter instance the excise board held that the market company was not the owner of the real estate, and that its consent was not, therefore, necessary to the granting of liquor licenses. The attorney, therefore, holds that the consent of the railsent was not, therefore, necessary to the granting of liquor licenses. The attorney, therefore, holds that the consent of the rall-road company is not required by either of the applicants in order to authorize the excise board to consent to the transfer of the respective licenses.

genuinely humorous effsode. He has an old and valued friend in the "Hub," who is the fortunate proprietor of a particu-larly prosperous cigar and tobacco shop, and it was his daily custom to visit his friend and chat over old times. The friend, who for obvious reasons will remain name-less, is inclined to be rather close, indeed approaching absolute stinginess. On the day under discussion Mr. Boucicault stopped in on his way to the matinee and found his tobacconist friend busy waiting on a customer, and not caring to interrupt him took his stand at the door watching for a liquor Leense in the vicinity of the 6th street station of the Pennsylvania Rall-road Company is not required to obtain the nate fellow with despair written in every line of his pinched features, glanced wist-fully into the store and then hesitatingly entered. He was not the characteristic conventional every-day beggar, but was evi-dently an unfortunate deserving man in dire distress. Modestly approaching the cigar dealer he begged for a trifle anything to dealer he begged for a trifle, anything to help him to a meal. Not wishing to ex-pose his close-fistedness to his customer, and at the same time shifting the burden of charity on his old friend's shoulders, he nonchalently referred the poor fellow to Mr. Boucicault, at the same time carelessly remarking, "There is the proprietor standing at the door. You will have to ask him. Mr. Boucieauit was an interested observe ing at the door. You will have to ask him."
Mr. Boucicauit was an interested observer of the situation and a smile o'erspread his usually mobile classic features. Waving the beggar back he loudly remarked to his friend, "All right, old chap, give this poor fellow a dollar out of the cash drawer. He looks as if he needs it." Absolutely thunderstruck at the new turn of affairs the cigar dealer compromised with a quarter

They enjoyed rumerous laughs during the day as they thought of Holland's ill-luck and his emphatic ejaculations as he failed to bring down his game. They went down to the boat to meet him as he returned in the evening, in order to enjoy his discomfiture. They nearly had a fit as they saw Holland approaching them in the gayest possible humor and with a much larger load of game than he had ever brought home before. home before.

When Stuart Robson opens his season in "Ollver Goldsmith" at Albany, N. Y., on Thanksgiving day he will be practically surrounded by an all-star cast. Not only this, but the new comedy will have a scenic and costume investiture seidom given com-edy productions. In the English world of letters 140 years ago Oliver Goldsmith was one of the brightnest lights. His pen was as facile at composing poetry as prose, as all will agree who have read his "Traveller," und who is it that has not readed. conteurs, and it is from this source that Mr. Augustus Thomas, who has made the comedy for Mr. Robson, derived the nucleus of his plot. In the play of "Oliver Goldsmith" all of the famous characters that came into his life will be shown. David Garrick will be improved to the provider of the content of the that came into his life will be shown. David Garrick will be impersonated by no other than that well-known comedian. Mr. Henry E. Dixey. Dr. Johnson will be played by Mr. H. A. Weaver. "The Jessamy Bride" will be in the hands of beautiful Plorence Rockwell, who has been engaged to replace Marie Burroughs as Mr. Robson's leading lady. GEORGIA'S POSITION OUTLINED. Resolutions Passed by Legislature Regarding Political Questions. The Georgia house of representatives has passed resolutions calling for the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people, the free coinage of silver at 16 to 1 and the early construction of the Nicaragua canal. The tax of 10 per cent on the issue of state banks is declared to be oppressive and unjust, as is also the war tax. The hope is expressed that the war tax will soon be succeeded by a just and tax will soon be succeeded by a just and equitable income tax.
